Online Privacy Notice

Metavante is committed to protecting the confidentiality of our customers' personal financial information. We believe it is helpful to have an overview of how this commitment is applied as Metavante collects, uses and protects your personal information when you visit us online.

Do we respond to “do not track” signals? Can other parties collect personally identifiable information on our Web site?

You may use a web browser that allows you to send a “do not track” signal to the operator of a commercial website or online service. This feature may allow you to request that the operator:

- Not collect personally identifiable information about you, or
- Not allow the operator or third parties to track your activity over time and across third-party websites and online services

Alternatively, you may use another mechanism to make such a request.

Metavante Payment Services, LLC, the provider of this notice, is the operator of a commercial website or online service. We do not respond to any “do not track” signal or other mechanism that you might send us or use. We would like to explain that.

We do not allow third parties to access our website to collect personally identifiable information about you, in order that they may track your online activities over time and across third-party websites and online services. Nor, as we have stated elsewhere in this notice, do we share any personally identifiable information about you with either affiliates or nonaffiliates for marketing purposes.

However, we need to collect, use and retain personally identifiable information about you for two reasons:

- First, we are a “money services business” under federal law. Under federal law, we are required to verify your identification and review any unusual activity. In order to do that, we need to collect, use and retain personally identifiable information about you.
- Second, we need to collect, use and retain personally identifiable information about you for our everyday business purposes, as described elsewhere in this notice.

Social Security Numbers

As part of its Online Privacy Notice, Metavante is committed to protecting the confidentiality of Social Security numbers, prohibiting unlawful disclosure of Social Security numbers and limiting access to Social Security numbers.

Protecting Children

Metavante strictly follows the federal guidelines of the Children's Online Privacy Protection Act (COPPA). We do not knowingly collect, maintain or use personally identifiable information from children under age 13 on our websites.
