

FIS INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES PROCESSING MANAGER

FORMERLY RIMS

Highly Automated, Modular and Scalable Real-time Middle- and Back-office Securities Processing

In a dynamic and competitive environment, banks and brokers must be able to differentiate their services and respond quickly to new business strategy. But too often their middle- and back-office processes hold them back rather than driving them forward.

FIS® International Securities Processing Manager (formerly RIMS) is a highly automated, modular and scalable real-time solution for middle- and back-office securities processing. It reduces manual steps and your total cost of ownership while increasing efficiency.

Multi-market, multi-currency and multi-entity, International Securities Processing Manager can easily support investors' increasingly diverse activities. It's also extremely configurable, so you can quickly scale up core business and local partnerships in new geographies – while scaling down in stagnated markets.

Regional and international firms can automatically create intercompany trades between their client-facing and market-facing entities. And the solution's sophisticated exception management increases straight-through processing.

ACHIEVE TRUE STRAIGHT-THROUGH PROCESSING

Rule-based processing facilitates a high degree of automation, and a variety of standard interfaces allows you to easily integrate with any in-house and third-party systems.

REDUCE COST

With event-driven and exception-based design, optimized operational efficiency and simplified processes, reduce costs and operational risk.

GENERATE MORE REVENUE

The system is highly configurable, allowing you to quickly enter new markets and relationships and differentiate in a dynamic, competitive and global environment.
