RCP Advisors Expands Private Equity Reporting Capabilities, Increases Efficiency with FIS

- Key facts
- Leading private equity investment firm RCP Advisors will gain increased operational efficiency to support its audit processes.
 - Increased demands for more automated and consistent workflows is driving private equity firms to leverage integrated solutions.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 20, 2017 – FIS[™] (NYSE: FIS), a global leader in financial services technology, today announced that RCP Advisors has selected FIS' Financial Reporting solution to expand its financial reporting capabilities and increase efficiency.

The new solution will help RCP's operations team to ease some of its annual audit burden. Currently, the team handles more than 30 audits – a labor-intensive, manual process in which many tasks repeat year after year. With FIS' Financial Reporting solution, RCP will benefit from a more centralized and streamlined audit process.

"As RCP continues to grow, we are always looking for ways to use technology to drive automated processes in support of that growth. The audit process was one of our main operational pain points that we knew we wanted to solve for, so we were really pleased to expand our relationship with FIS to include these capabilities," commented Andy Nelson, CFO, RCP Advisors. "Now, everything will be seamlessly integrated, leveraging the FIS private equity solution suite to help us with the accuracy and overall efficiency of producing a volume of financial statements."

"Investment firms continue to seek out ways to replace manual intensive activities with more automation, and the audit process is a perfect example of that," said Sami Juma, senior executive, FIS. "We're excited to help RCS gain efficiencies in the audit process that will enable them to scale their operations."

As part of the expanded relationship, RCP also renewed its license to FIS' Private Equity solution.
